9. EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S REPORT

There is no doubt that the Jamaican Canadian Association is on the move. This year we witnessed many changes at the association including the launching of new programs, the expansion of staffing and an increased awareness of the programs and services being delivered at the JCA.

As we approach our 43rd year, we look toward many more changes; changes that will bring the organization to "another level". These changes are crucial for the survival and expansion of the association. We are, no doubt, being transformed; this process should be celebrated because without changes we cannot grow.

The Caribbean Youth and Family Services department of the association is an outstanding service within our community. Over the year we have served over 1000 clients from various parts of the world including Africa, the Caribbean, South Asia, Latin America and North America. This is an amazing accomplishment and we look forward to increasing this number over the next year as we introduce new programs and opportunities at the JCA.

This report was received and placed on record as the Executive Director (Mr. Danny Anckle) had resigned and left the organization.

OFFICER'S REPORT

10. VICE PRESIDENT

I am very pleased to provide you with an overview of activities for the 2004/2005 fiscal year. As VP I have had great honour in representing the association at many levels. This included acting as chair for several committees that focused on fundraising, human resources, annual functions as well as overseeing the operation of the daily activities of the JCA. Once again we had a very successful year with such events as the Boonoonoonoos Brunch, and the Anniversary Independence celebrations.

This year we were able to increase the staffing level at JCA with the successful hiring of a fundraiser and a volunteer coordinator. With this move, we will no doubt see major growth within the organization in the years to come.

The hiring committee was also instrumental in recruiting an executive director and a program director.

In late November we planned and executed a very successful board/senior staff retreat. This was an opportunity for the governance body of the organization along with senior staff and members to work together to conduct a SWOT (Strength, Weakness, Opportunities and Threats) analysis of the association in an effort to develop a strategic plan for the next 3 – 5 years. This event was extremely successful as we were able to produce a working document that can be used to develop a work plan towards the enhancement of the association's programs. We were also able to highlight the crucial need for a crosswalk or traffic light at 995 Arrow Road.

The president and I also met with Commissioner Justice LeSarge and presented our submission for the creation of a public complaints commission to deal with citizens' complaints against police. Justice LeSarge has since handed down his recommendations, which call for the creation of such a commission.

Following the release of the Justice LeSarge report, a letter was written to the Attorney General, urging him to act quickly and implement Justice LeSarge's recommendations.

Finally, as I approach the end of my term in office, I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere gratitude to members for their support, especially those who served on the various committees that I had the privilege of chairing. Though I will not be seeking re-election, I will continue to be an active player in the association as the overall success of this outstanding organization is the responsibility of all members.

It was moved by Ms. Mervis White seconded by Ms. Erma Collins:

THAT the foregoing report of the Vice President be adopted:

Carried unanimously.

11. PRESIDENT

We have come to the end of another year at the Jamaican Canadian Association and look forward to the beginning of another with great confidence. From the past year we are reminded of the persistent infinity of transformation. We are reminded too that transformation occurs for a reason. Some changes are more challenging than others; regardless of the outcome we have survived as an association and as a community. We are also reminded that we cannot prosper or even survive if we do not engage in a transformational process.

As you read the pages of this report, make note of the enormous amount of work that is being done at the association. The JCA is indeed a main source of support for our community. Over the past 42+ years, JCA has fulfilled its original mission to be the "voice" of people from the Caribbean. We have since opened our doors to advocate and be of service for all who "knock on our doors." JCA has demonstrated leadership in our community and has been proactive on issues that have a significant impact on the way we exist, issues such as policing and race relations. We at the JCA consistently engage in discussion and provide suggestions/recommendations in an effort to foster relationships between our community, community leaders, law enforcers and government representatives. Our efforts are being noticed and we are consistently invited to "the table" and will always ensure that our community is represented.

We have seen a significant growth in our scholarship program this year resulting in the presentation of 10 scholarships to students from our community. This is indeed a great achievement and should be celebrated.

Fundraising is a huge undertaking for all not-for-profit organizations. Here at the JCA acknowledge that full-time efforts need to be placed on developing and implementing a fundraising strategy.

These efforts are essential if we are to realize our dreams of becoming self-sufficient. In December, we were pleased to hire a full-time fundraiser, who along with the fundraising committee and other committees of the association, have begun the process of building the financial resources of the association.

It was the efforts of some forward thinking volunteers who gave 'birth' to the association. Volunteers continue to drive the work of the association. The need to coordinate, acknowledge and celebrate the enormous efforts of our volunteers became apparent, as such we responded by developing a staffing position that will coordinate our volunteer pool and provide educational opportunities for new and existing volunteers. A volunteer coordinator joined our staffing team in December.

To further enhance our staffing and leadership, in addition to the hiring of a new executive director, we created the position of a program director. Recognizing the fact that we needed. Recognizing the fact that we needed to engage in the process of succession planning, the program director position was created to not only refine the deliver of programs and services with the association, but to ensure he continuity of services. Over the next few years we will continue to focus on staff development and service refinement to ensure that the services of the association remain relevant.

I would like to thank everyone who stood with us, supported and encouraged us during our highs and our challenging moments. We sincerely thank our funders, donors and volunteers who so generously supported us in our work, and to the committed staff who work here at the JCA; and to the committed who have demonstrated their support for the work of the association and specifically he work conduced in the Caribbean Youth and Family Services, our Employment, New Immigrant and Education Services. Your achievements and contribution are essential the survival of the JCA. We have made great achievements over the past year, and most definitely over the past 42+ years. As we look ahead, we must envision our future with a sense of purpose and we must remain passionate and excited about the possibilities.

In the years ahead, we must continue progressing toward the full attainment of the goals we share for our association and the community. There are still higher peaks of excellence for us to climb, and much to be learned and achieved in making the ascent.

It was moved that the foregoing report be placed on record, the President having resigned his position and left the association:

Carried unanimously.
